Welcome to Kinloch Connect

As you are no doubt aware, Kinloch is growing and changing at a greater rate than ever before. Connect is here with some useful information to help make the summer even better and keep you up to date with what is happening in the community.

At the beginning of this year Taupō District Council, in association with Kinloch Community Association, set about establishing a voice for Kinloch on council. The result was the Kinloch Representative Group, with three councillors: Rosanne Jollands, Christine Rankin and Barry Hickling, and three community representatives: Bruce Campbell, Tim Brittain and Belinda Walker, as members. The group's first meeting was held in the Kinloch Community Hall on Monday, December 11, and it will formally meet every two months throughout the year.

Your Kinloch community representatives

Bruce Campbell has had a long association with Kinloch ever since his family purchased a home there in 1973, and he has been heavily involved in the Kinloch and wider Taupō communities through his work as an engineer and a variety of community groups.

Tim Brittain's family first came to the area in 1963 and he has served as director of Kinloch Marina for 25 years and chairman for 16 years. He is currently farming in Otorohanga but continues to spend a great deal of time in Kinloch.

Belinda Walker settled in Kinloch after returning from the UK, and is currently president of Kinloch Community Association. Belinda has been heavily involved with the Kinloch Community Structure Plan.

As a part of this process a workshop was held with the help of council and inspiring communities facilitator, Barbara McLennan, to develop a Kinloch vision. Public input is now being sought, so visit www.surveymonkey.com/r/Kinlochvision to get involved.
